THE PRIMARY ELECTION

Elections always bring a lot of heartaches. It is one of the unfortunate things about these bi-annual affairs that only one candidate in each race is able to win. Those who are disappointed in their appeal for the office are sorely disappointed, and many of them are unable to "stand the gaff" of defeat. However, no one should get messed up in politics unless able to take it on the chin and smile when the electorate says that they favor another candidate.

The people of Texas were not mistaken in re-electing Senator Connally. He is a very able man.

The great disappointment of the Governor's race came to the Panhandle friends of Senator Clint Small. They do not regret having worked ardently for his cause, but they do regret that the people down state were not sufficiently familiar with his record and accomplishments to give him their support. However, it did not take a very close student of political affairs to realize that James V. Allred would step out in front as the leading candidate. Never was such an effective campaign carried on as was conducted by Mr. Allred. The pulling powers of Mr. Hunter were not overlooked by the people of this section, but it was generally believed that Senator Small could overcome the popularity of Hunter shown two years ago, and could nose Hunter out in the final count. The greatest surprise as far as the Governor's race was concerned was the fact that the Fergusons could not deliver more effectively to C. C. McDonald, the most brilliant orator in the campaign.

It was a great surprise to the friends of Walter Woodul that Joe Moore showed such great strength, and will meet the Houston man in the second primary.

West Texas friends of Walter Woodward were hoping for a victory for their man over the field of Smith and McCraw. A bitter battle will be waged in the second primary, with the odds against Woodward.

The tragedy of the primary was the fact that a man by the name of Baker was able to have his name changed to George B. Terrell and get into the second primary with Charley Lockhart, without making any sort of campaign. The magic drawing power of the name Terrell still continues in a big way so far as Texas politics is concerned.

The Ferguson entry, John Pundt, for Railroad Commissioner will oppose Lon A. Smith. Smith will win owing to the tremendous political influence connected with the position.

The voters this year did not turn out the holders-over to quite the same extent as they did two years ago.

The vote in Randall county was heavy, and much closer in many instances than was predicted a few weeks ago. Only two campaigns of local interest will be carried through the second primary, that of District Judge, and County Clerk.

Editor Deskin Wells and his staff of the Wellington Leader last week published a 92-page edition celebrating the Silver Anniversary of that paper. It was one of the nicest editions of its kind published in the Panhandle in some time. It is an exceedingly interesting paper, filled with valuable historical material of Collingsworth county and other sections of the Panhandle.

Wells is recognized as a leader in the field of Panhandle newspapers and has received State and National recognition as a weekly publisher.

To prepare such an edition as their Silver Anniversary publication requires an enormous amount of time, work and expense. Wells and his staff are to be commended for their splendid achievement.

These Frocks Are Hot Weather Friends

UTILITY, CHARM MAKE THIS WEEK'S OFFERINGS IDEAL SUBJECTS FOR MILADY'S NEEDLE IN HER SPARE TIME

FOR those hot, sticky dog days, you'll want frocks that are cool and comfortable, yet dainty and chic. Nothing could suit the purpose better than the models sketched above.

If, on the tennis court, you want to interest spectators more in your appearance than your agility and service, No. 244's the dress for you. Long slim lines broken by scallops and buttons, give this sports frock a trim silhouette. It can be made easily, in linen, pique, or gingham; and comes in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 18 calls for 3 1/4 yards of 35-inch fabric.

Brighten otherwise drab kitchen work with No. 253, a charming apron frock of checked gingham. Note the simple lines, contrasting collar and revers. Printed linen or chambray is splendid for this apron, which closes in the front. It comes in sizes 32 to 42. Size 38 needs 5 1/2 yards of 32-inch fabric, or 5 yards plus 3/4 yard contrast.

Suitable for many occasions during the summer is the youthful, nonchalant-appearing No. 228. The high buttoned neckline and sleeves are naive, yet smart. Linen, faille, and broadcloth are the materials. Designs are in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 18 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch fabric.

Midsummer Social

Winston Savage, chairman of the social committee, reported plans for a midsummer social function Tuesday evening at 8:30, July 31, at President Hill's home. Entertainment for the evening is being worked out to the surprise and delight of every guest. Tuesday evening will find the summer graduates engaging in social activity as a class group for the first time during a summer term. To emphasize the lack of a social program prior to this season, the committee has made extensive plans for this first assemblage. The wives and the husbands of members of the graduating class are invited, and guests within the classification of a senior may be asked. Seniors are prompted to leave this evening open entirely to the plans of the committee working on entertainment features. The evening will warrant refreshing informal entertainment for every guest.

Dr. Debo's Book Is Well Received

Style and Historical Value Discussed In Review

Much favorable comment is being made upon Dr. Angie Debo's new book, "The Rise and Fall of the Choctaw Republic," published by the University of Oklahoma Press. Especially in the eastern cities it is being well received. A few of the many papers in which reviews have appeared are: the Atlantic City Press, Muncie, (Indiana) Star, New York Sun, Boston Herald, Dallas News, Kansas City Star, Washington (Ohio) Herald, Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat, and Toledo (Ohio) Times.

Lewis Gannett, considered the foremost book reviewer in this country devoted his entire column

News in Canyon 25 Years Ago

(Taken from the files of the Randall County News of July 30, 1909)

Randall county's new court house was accepted by the commissioners' court on July 24th, and county officials began moving into the new building on Monday. The contractors were: Gilcoat and Skinner, and R. G. Kirsh of St. Louis was the architect. Bonds for erecting the new court house were voted in December, 1907.

The pumping equipment for the well to supply the new court house with water has arrived and will be installed soon.

Amarillo has been in the throes of several kinds of celebrations this week. The event claiming the most attention was the auto races on the new track west of that city. There were three days of the event and during the time there were some good exhibitions of speed. There were also some harness races and short horse races.

Andy Costley is now erecting on his home section one of the best barns in this section of the state.

Judge J. C. Hunt of this city went to Hale Center last Friday and delivered the principal address at the occasion of the celebration of the completion of the railway line from Plainview to that city.

Contractors Gilcoat and Skinner have a large force of workmen upon the new brick building for the First National Bank and Judge L. C. Lair.

In the New York Herald-Tribune on July 4 to a review of Dr. Debo's book, the Republic of the Choctaws. This, in itself, is an outstanding recognition of worth. Mr. Gannett's opinion is that "Miss Debo's book is an important chapter in American history."

Of Dr. Debo's style the Kansas City Star has said, "The story is all the more poignant for being told with restraint and dignity."

In the July 21st issue of the Baltimore Evening Sun appeared a full column review by the Sun's Book Editor, Henry Jarrett.

Hal Borland, Book Editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger devoted his entire column to a review of Dr. Debo's book.

Constance Lindsay Skinner, reviewing "The Rise and Fall of the Choctaw Republic," said, on July 22, "Miss Debo introduces us to individual chiefs who deserve a place in the history of American statesmanship. She records the Choctaws' early recognition of the value of schools and the appropriations, and the sacrifices, they made for them. It is a remarkable, a poignant, and an inspiring story."

Showing exceptional interest in the story of the Choctaw Republic are reviews in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the New York World-Telegram, the Newport News (Va.) Press, the Towanda (Pa.) Review, the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer, the Tulsa World, and the New Bedford (Mass.) Mercury.

Scientists say that even persons priding themselves on their acute hearing are deaf to certain sounds. We've met such people; they can't hear things like "How about a ten till Friday?"

In Dakota Governorship Duel

Whatever the ousted governor of North Dakota is saying to the acting governor these days, it isn't nice. When Gov. William Langer, left, was convicted recently on U. S. felony charges, Lieut. Gov. Ole H. Olson, right, had himself sworn into the governorship. Langer retaliated by calling out militiamen, and placing the state under martial law. Then Olson hit back by having these troops withdrawn from active service. The spirited battle has aroused national interest.

Conference On Curriculum At College Here

Dr. Fred C. Ayer And Mrs. Hazel Ott Speakers

The second educational conference on curriculum revision to be held in West Texas State Teachers College began Thursday morning and continued through Saturday, with Mrs. Hazel H. Ott and Dr. Fred C. Ayer as the speakers. This was another of the regional conferences being held over the state to acquaint the people, the laymen as well as those in the teaching profession, with the nature of the program. To study and to build up a background as a point of departure before any very marked changes can be made in the curriculum of the public schools will be necessary.

Four Stages

According to Dr. Ayer, who made the opening speech by giving the historical background of curriculum making, the revision program is divided into four stages: the orientation year, the production year, the installation year, and the try-out—revaluation year. To integrate the religious, the literary, the scientific, the aesthetic, the institutional, and the industrial heritages—all these that make up the cultural heritage—into one whole, into a curriculum which will be living and growing, is the job of those who are working on the revision of our program today. But, in order to prevent our merging these subjects at too large an extent and our overlooking their independent value, Dr. Ayer said, "These great fields of learning do represent the very flower of civilization and by no process should we completely crush the subjects out of the curriculum because these great fields of organized knowledge are things that exist as important. These essential truths will go on and be here when you and I are gone."

Second Address

Mrs. Ott, who made the second address of the morning, used as the topic of her discussion the periods involved in the curriculum program. Mrs. Ott pointed out the fact that curriculum revision is continuous. It will be necessary for the class-room teacher to cooperate with and to contribute to the making of the new set-up. Although some think that the curriculum should be planned by experts and given to the teachers to put into effect, it will be necessary for the teacher to aid because she is more familiar with and in closer contact with the every-day problems.

Social Factors

At 2:00 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, Dr. Ayer discussed the social factors tending to change the school's curriculum from a predominately cultural one to a socialized curriculum. These are the family, the community, the playground, the church, vocational guidance and training, and the press. Dr. Ayer said, "If you take all these institutions and ask what influence these have had on the curriculum, I could answer that these have tended to socialize the curriculum more like life. We must initiate a movement to eradicate all of the attention that we have been placing upon subject-matter and turn it into new types of organized experiences for the young people that will give them attitudes that will fit them to become good citizens. We have to develop a new type of civic attitude and the way we can do that is to get them to cooperate in clubs."

Continuity

Mrs. Ott's talk, which followed Dr. Ayer's brought out the different approaches that exist in making curriculum revision, some of which were the approach through child experience, through social statistics, activity, and science. The program should be continuous from grade to grade to eliminate repetition, and to eliminate gaps between the different divisions, primary, intermediate and secondary. A definition of each of the fourteen approaches was continued early Friday morning and at 9:00 the method or procedure of putting over the program was discussed, with the place of the teaching unit being given prominence. On Saturday morning Mrs. Ott evaluated the activity as a part of the program. The school activities give children practice in adapting themselves to living. "Man has not adapted himself to his environment, but with the help of science he has overcome difficulties."

Much of the material discussed by Dr. Ayer and Mrs. Ott was parallel.

Thinks His Car Has Everything

Dr. Calvin B. Bridges, prominent biologist of Pasadena, Calif., believes the auto he is creating will be the world's safest, most efficient car. Here's what he claims for it: Speed of 100 miles an hour, 50 to 70 miles on a gallon of gasoline, and seating capacity of four people. There will be no glass to break in an accident, another translucent material being used, and the car, Bridges contends, cannot be capsized. He is shown holding a model of the vehicle, which will be tested soon.

gave the state organization for curriculum revision: teacher training, improvement committees, personnel to set up the program, financing of the program, and integration of what has already been done.

The method of leading from the subject into the activity was the topic of his discussion Saturday morning. At a later period he endeavored to give the question of individual differences, heredity, and child development their true importance.

This conference was the result of the efforts of the college to bring prospective teachers of W. T. into closer contact with the current-day activities in the educational world. According to Dr. Ayer, it is only those who are concerned now with these changes that are being brought about in the curriculum and who are becoming trained in the work are those who are to grow as teachers or are to be promoted to better positions.

This conference is an outgrowth of the Educational Conference in the spring. It is probable that other meetings will be held to discuss these problems as work in the state and especially as progress in W. T. goes on.

Indian Relics New Exhibit In Museum

Evidence Of Type Of Different American Indians

Stone implements used by the Indians of western Arkansas and collected in recent years about forty-five miles east of Fort Smith have been lent to the Peshandle-Plains Historical Museum by Mr. Z. L. Evans of McLean. Having started his collection in 1920, Mr. Evans spent a great deal of time studying them. The exhibit in the museum is only a small part of Mr. Evans' collection.

Mr. Evans' material gives evidence of a vastly different type of Indian from that which inhabited the Texas Panhandle. Among the implements on display are drills, pipes, axes, arrow heads, skin scrapers, and a corn grinder found near McLean. This unusual and interesting exhibit is on display for only a short time.

Many other things of historical interest are constantly being added to the museum collection. A new exhibit which will probably be up by the time the paper goes to press consists of Indian relics of a type in which Mr. L. L. Sheffy, head of the Department of History, is greatly interested.

More than forty thousand visitors have gone through the museum since its opening last year.

25th Anniversary Play Morning

For a great date in your fall program, mark October 20! It is the last day of the Homecoming activities celebrating W. T.'s 25th anniversary.

Mr. L. F. Sheffy, who is in charge of the Homecoming plans, has announced that on Saturday morning the period from 8:00 o'clock and continuing until 10:00 o'clock will be dedicated to games, contests, and activities similar to those on Play-Nite. It is Mr. Sheffy's hope that the ex-students will make that morning theirs by participating enthusiastically and wholeheartedly in the amusements being planned and suggested by the Physical Education Department of the college.

The schedule of the regular Play-Nite will probably be in effect—servus ball, croquet, volley ball, horse shoe pitching, table and lawn tennis, intramural basketball. Ex-members of the student organizations will resume their old rivalries. Pi Omegas. Antlers and Elapheans. The Red Men. Come and challenge your old opponents. But—warning! Be fit as a fiddle so that you will give them strong competition.

In the afternoon the Buffaloes will play the McMurray Indians. In the evening will be the big dance, which, from the whispers we hear, will be sponsored by the Pi Omegas. And all the activities of the whole day will be dedicated to mothers and dads of W. T.

FISK SINGERS APPEAR HERE ON AUGUST 17

Just Returned From A Fourth Visit To Europe

The Fisk Jubilee Singers, who will appear at West Texas State Teachers College on Friday evening, August 17, are pre-eminent in the field of negro ensemble singing, and direct descendants of the original exponents of negro spirituals, the Fisk Jubilee Singers have become a musical tradition of international significance. Sixty years is a short time to have produced the three finest groups of singers in the negro race. The present group, a male quartet, is the third generation of these singers, always composed of graduates of Fisk University of Nashville, Tennessee.

Established in 1865, on the site of an old slave market, Fisk University is now one of the oldest and best known institutions for the higher education of negro people, having developed from a preparatory normal school to a liberal arts college of highest standing. The first group of Fisk Jubilee Singers, born in slavery, and named from that passage in Leviticus, proclaiming a year of "jubilee," went to Europe in 1873. They sang before Queen Victoria, the King and Queen of Holland, Gladstone, and the Earl of Shaftsbury, and in that first tour they earned enough money to build two dormitories at Fisk University.

They have just returned from a fourth visit to Europe, which renewed and increased their triumphs in all the important centers. They filled Salle Gaveau in Paris four times, were soloists there with the Colonne Orchestra and Societe Philharmonique; they made three tours along the Riviera, sang repeatedly in London, Berlin, Vienna, Munich, Amsterdam, Budapest, Prague, Zurich, gave private concerts before Lady Astor, Premier Mussolini, Ambassador Tobin of Holland and Ambassador Fletcher of Rome.

The timbre and quality of their voices individually, and the perfection of their ensemble is the constant admiration of eminent musicians, and they have the sincere endorsement of Walter Damrosch, David Manners, Frank La Forge, Eva Gauthier, Alma Gluck, Roland Hayes, who was formerly one of their group and also a Fisk graduate, and such French artists as Ravel and Rabaud. They have sung with the Symphony Orchestra of Boston, Chicago and Detroit, and are everywhere acknowledged to be the greatest exponents of negro spirituals in the world today.

The Fisk Singers are providing in their own way quite as excellent art as that of Roland Hayes. Theirs is art indeed, a quiet consummate beauty in the face of which criticism has nothing to say. For what can be said about the most exquisitely perfect singing of the American negro spirituals except to measure the concert in superlative terms, and recite how this exceeded that, and how the last encore, like a Kreisler fifth, left the impression that "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray" was a shade better than anything that had gone before? Never, even out of the mouth of Mr. Hayes, could one hear a combination of tone, phrasing, grace, dignity and restraint rarer than this. In fact, they are like a quartet built out of Roland Hayes; the same exquisitely soft solo, which in harmony, unaccompanied, becomes the breath of a lovely old harmonium, played in the distance.

Tone, rhythm and enunciation—these are the three outstanding beauties of the Fisk Singers' great art—such singing as only the very greatest artists can achieve in ensemble.

Tom Hunter Men Plan Campaign In Run-off Primary

AMARILLO, July 31.—The organization of a Panhandle-wide Tom F. Hunter for Governor Club has been started here this week with Fred Seale as chairman. Plans are being formulated to carry Mr. Hunter's campaign into every county of the Panhandle in the coming run-off primary. An organization with a chairman and a group of supporters working for Mr. Hunter's election will be set up in every Panhandle county.

Mr. Seale, who was active in the Hunter campaign during the time preceding the first primary, called attention to Hunter's strong showing in this section, in the face of a Panhandle candidate for governor.

"The Hunter organization has not been very active up to the present, because we have felt that with a local favorite in the field that we owed the people of this section the opportunity to vote for their choice in the first primary without too strong a plea for our candidate," Mr. Seale said.

"However, it is with pride that we point to the results in Hunter's home town. The three Wichita Falls candidates for the office of Governor voted in the same precinct. Hunter carried that precinct, led in the city of Wichita Falls and in Wichita County. He lacked only a small number of votes of getting a clear majority over all five opponents in the county. We are especially pleased with the strong showing he made in the Panhandle, and recall to mind the wonderful support accorded him in this section two years ago when he was unknown to people here.

"Mr. Hunter has at heart the best interests of all the people of Texas, and we are sure that this fact will be recognized before the end of this run-off campaign.

Dr. Hill Discusses "Taking Stock" In Rotary Club Talk

"The college, with its $1,300,000 plant, needs many things, but it is not inferior to any other college in standing, nor in the granting of degrees. Amarillo is an advantage to us. We may have the advantages of the big city without the disadvantages. Our city should have a census of 10,000 within ten years. Our slogan should be 'City of Homes'."

Lahroy White, Amarillo Rotarian, spoke for a few minutes about the pleasure it was for Amarillo members to make-up attendance at the Canyon club, because of the warm fellowship existing here.

Hereford Park Gets New C.C.C. Company Tuesday

Civilian Conservation Corps Company 1862, an entirely new company which has been in the process of recruiting and organizing at the Palo Duro Camp for the past week or so, was moved to its location on a new state park site designated near Hereford. The removal of the company from the Palo Duro camp was made Tuesday. Citizens of Hereford drove to Canyon at an early hour to give the men transportation to their new camp.

Tentage and equipment for 1862 was brought from Fort Sill last week by trucks of the Palo Duro Park. The men will be in tents, until permanent barracks and other quarters are completed.

The new park is located on 300 acres of land near Hereford and is tentatively called the Hereford State Park. Howard Trigg, of Amarillo, who has been stationed at the Palo Duro Park for the past year, has been named as Park Superintendent of the new project.

Capt. B. Cox of Houston is the commanding officer of the newly organized Company 1862.

During the ten-day period when 1862 was being organized, Company 1828 at the Palo Duro Park was host to the new company. For serving breakfast only, to the 450 men, 1800 eggs were required. Each day a half of a beef was used and for each meal 250 pounds of potatoes were required.

The two companies at the Palo Duro Park are now up to full quota. Maj. E. A. Kinsley, superintendent of the park, stated yesterday.

Although not official, rumors have been heard around Canyon this week that it is likely that another company will be recruited at the Palo Duro within a few weeks with Company 1821 as the host company for the recruits.

SINCERE THANKS

—to the people of Randall county for the splendid support of my candidacy for the office of County and District Clerk. I appreciate very much this fine vote which placed me in the run-off primary. This expression of confidence in me shall ever be appreciated.

In expressing gratitude for your fine support, I want also to solicit your vote on August 25. I shall try to personally see every voter in the county, but as the time is short, it will be impossible to see all. I want each voter to know that I shall deeply appreciate their vote in the run-off election.

If I am successful in this campaign and serve you as your County and District Clerk, I hope to justify your confidence by performing the duties of the office to your entire satisfaction.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

He's a Tiny Man From the South, Is Itsy "Bitsy" Grant, Midget Tennesseer
Turned Big Title Contender

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE gentlemen who pick Uncle Sam's Davis Cup entrants seem to have overlooked something good in the shape of Bryan Grant, Jr., of Atlanta. Maybe his size has something to do with this oversight—he's tiny, as tennis players go—but Grant has been showing 'em all recently that he's a formidable tenniseer, despite his miniature build.

In recent weeks, "Bitsy" has taken four successive tournaments in masterful fashion. The Dixie Invitational at Memphis, the southern at Atlanta, and the western and national clay court titles at Chicago, all are now notches on Grant's racket.

Among his victims, the tiny tennis Titan can count such formidable names as Ellsworth Vines, Lester Stofen, and Francis X. Shields. True, after his defeat by Grant in January, Shields, No. 1 ranking player, obtained revenge in April at White Sulphur Springs. But analysis of this match shows that "Bitsy" won the first two sets and a total of 25 games to Shields' 23, likewise 157 points to the victor's 152. So it wasn't such a lambasting, after all.

The little fellow's main stock in trade is his excellent control and this, like good wine, should improve with age. He has come up fast in the last year, and Go-liaths of the tennis world would better look to their laurels. There's a David in the offing.

THERE'S a youngster out on the Pacific Coast who, we believe, will have to be taken seriously by the heavyweight high-and-mighties several years from now. We refer to Fred Feary, of whom you probably have heard little or nothing.

It is a coincidence—perhaps a prophetic one—that Feary hails from Stockton, Calif., where Baer began his fistic career.

Turning now after winning the National Amateur title in 1932, Feary has shown, in his many victories and in his eagerness to learn from his few defeats, enough promise to make a lot of fans swear by him as a potential future champ. All the lad needs, it seems, is a little more experience.

THE boast of National League followers that theirs is a faster circuit than the American League has been silenced for another year at least. In the recent All Star game between picked men of each loop, the Americans outplayed their older loop competitors in almost every department of the game.

Carl Hubbell's outstanding work was the only exception; his marvelous three-inning job, in which the Giants' screwball artist put down the American League batting greats in 1-2-3 fashion, was the high spot of the contest. But the Cleveland Indian flinger, Mel Harder, didn't do so bad himself, stopping the National stars when they threatened to steal the lead.

But cheer up, National fans! The 9-7 score wasn't so decisive after all, and 1935 is another year.

(a) General management and control of the affairs of the County shall hereafter be vested in the Commissioners' Court, provided that in the exercise of powers not specifically granted to the Commissioners' Court by the Constitution and Amendments thereto, the Court shall be subject to the authority of the Legislature of the State, and the Court shall also be subject to all general laws of the State now in force not in conflict with the provisions of this Amendment until such laws are modified or repealed."

(b) All duties heretofore performed by the Clerk of the District Court and the County Clerk shall hereafter be performed by an officer to be known as Record Clerk; all duties heretofore performed by the County Tax Assessor and the County Tax Collector shall hereafter be performed by one officer known as Tax Clerk; and in the counties where the sheriff performs the duties of the Tax Collector he may hereafter perform the duties of the Tax Clerk. Provided, however, that no such law shall impair the powers of the Commissioners' Court to do as to the compensation of county and precinct officers other than the County Auditor, to fix the number of assistants, deputies, and clerical personnel which said officers may employ, nor shall such general law change the present constitutional limitations on counties to incur public debts."

MUSEUM GETS NEW INDIAN RELIC GIFT

Collection Given As Lasting Memorial To Parents

Little more than a week ago, W. T. S. T. C. received one of the most pleasant surprises of the summer in the form of a shipment of ten trunks and boxes of Indian souvenirs and relics for the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. This collection, which comes from Miss Susan J. Allen of Haverford, Pennsylvania, is by far the largest that has come to the museum since its establishment.

Spent Years Collecting

Miss Allen sends her splendid collection, which incidentally she has spent years in gathering, as an outright gift to the college, placing no restrictions whatever upon it except that it be considered a Memorial to her deceased parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. and Sarah H. Allen. In a letter to Mr. Floyd V. Studer, with whom she has been in correspondence for a year in regard to placing her materials, Miss Allen writes, "It was my father's love of all things beautiful and his encouragement of my interest in helping select the finest specimens, which was the basis of my collection. And my mother was indefatigable later, when my hobby grew to such an extent that we held sales and exhibits or had lectures for the benefit of the Indians."

Interested in West

It was on trips through the West that Miss Allen first became interested in the Indians and their handicraft. For years she has since been engaged in gathering pieces, some of which can hardly be valued materially, and making an absorbing hobby of exhibiting them in her Eastern home. Recently she has found her collection gaining such proportions as to necessitate her placing it in a situation where it can be well cared for.

Smaller Museum

When the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum was getting its first actual start, a paper bearing an article about it fell into Miss Allen's hands. Upon investigation, she was convinced that a relatively small museum was the place for her collection, the large ones nearer home, in New York, Philadelphia, etc., being already over-crowded. Considering that she wished to leave her findings eventually in their own environment, she chose the museum at W. T. as being virtually "made for her."

Opened Sunday

The boxes of curios, arriving July 16, were not opened until Sunday afternoon, July 29, when Mr. L. F. Sheffy and Mr. Studer could take charge. Immediately they found themselves in a maze of beautiful Indian handicraft that proved almost breath-taking both in quantity and quality. One box contained principally wearing apparel, such as belts, sashes, hand bags, head dresses of every description, even to the buckskin gauntlets once owned by Jack London. Every article is beaded almost solidly, with the colors arranged in startling and effective designs. One hardly dares to estimate the time and patience that must have gone into the making of any one of those beautiful objects.

Silver Trinkets

In another smaller box was found silver trinkets made by the Indians—rings, bracelets, necklaces, buckles, blanket pins, and spoons, numbers of which were lavishly decorated with turquoise. The butterfly design appears more frequently than any other in completing the Indian artistry.

Students

attend college only through this aid and are otherwise qualified for this aid. Those interested should make application at once as the West Texas State Teachers College quota of 91 students will soon be filled.

The Federal Aid plan is bringing numbers of inquiries to Mr. Murray Working with Mr. Murray are Dr. Harris M. Cook, Miss Edna Graham, Mrs. Geraldine Green and Professor T. M. Moore. President Hill is ex-officio member of the committee.

Aid to Reach Many Counties
The College cannot extend this help to many students of any single county, for it is the purpose to help students from any county of the state, and particularly from the many counties from which students ordinarily come to Canyon to College. With this idea in mind, the committee will choose worthy, needy students from a large area.

The Government stipulates that first of all, it must be established that a student applying cannot possibly go to college through his own or his family's efforts. It is not the purpose of the government to help those who can possibly help themselves. After this need is proved, scholarship and character will next be considered, and every effort will be made to choose from those in need the students who will do the best work and who give promise of becoming the best citizens of the country.

Choosing who shall be helped from the many who apply is a tremendous task, and members of the committee are spending many hours each day doing the work. It is hoped that the entire quota of ninety-one students can be chosen before the end of August, so that the fortunate ones will have a little time in which to make their preparations to enter college on the 18th of September. Students who hope to be put on the list to be considered should fill out blanks which will be furnished for this purpose. These blanks may be secured from several of the college offices.

Primary

county judge. Mrs. Elzie Price defeated Miss Olive Schramm for the office of county treasurer.

In the District Attorney's race, Grady Hazlewood received almost a 3 to 1 vote over his opponent, S. F. Rose, a proportionate lead, that he held in the entire district. All of the present County Commissioners were re-elected.

B. F. Matchen defeated B. A. Witherspoon for the office of Justice of the Peace by a vote of more than 3 to 1. Fred Wortham, now serving as Justice of the Peace was not a candidate.

Voters of Randall county gave Senator Tom Connally an overwhelming vote in his race for reelection to the United States Senate. Clint Small led the field of six candidates for governor in Randall county with 1118 votes, although his lead was lighter than it was in previous races. James V. Allred was second in the county and McDonald third. Although it had been announced that he had withdrawn from the race for governor after the ballots had been printed, Edward K. Russell, received 12 votes in the county, to lead Maury Hughes, the Dallas candidate who received only 8.

Woodul Leads in County
Walter Woodul and Joe Moore who will be in the run-off primary as candidates for Lieutenant Governor, held the positions of first and second choice of Randall county voters, the same relative positions they have held throughout the state.

Walter Woodward of Coleman, candidate for Attorney General, who was leading in the state by a narrow margin in the unofficial tabulation of over 900,000 votes yesterday, received more in this county than the other two candidates for that office.

Geo. H. Sheppard, state comptroller, and Charley Lockhart, state treasurer, both seeking reelection, received more votes in this county than the combined total of their opponents in those two races.

K. Terrill, of Floyd county, whose campaigning for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture, was confined to the filing of his name on the ticket, lead the field of four candidates in Randall county.

WRITE IN CAMPAIGNS PLACE NUMBER OF NAMES ON BALLOT

Write-in campaigns in various boxes of the county, mostly for offices where no candidate had filed on the ticket, with one exception, created very little interest.

A write-in campaign in behalf of Bill Money for County Hide and Animal Inspector, drew for him a total of 122 votes. There were no other names written in for that Greenville, both of whom are now serving as state senators, prepared to launch their campaigns in the run-off primary. Woodul held a commanding lead of 112,000 votes over Moore as the final count was announced.

Lon A. Smith, chairman of the State Railroad Commission, continued to lead the field in the five-man race, with John Pundt, of Dallas, in second place for the run-off with Smith.

George Sheppard, State Comptroller; Charley Lockhart, State Treasurer; and J. E. McDonald, Commissioner of Agriculture, apparently had won renomination without the necessity of a run-off. J. H. Walker, State Land Commissioner, with only one opponent, was re-elected.

Hal S. Lattimore and John M. Sharp, two of the three candidates for the Supreme Court will enter the run-off race for the nomination.
